UNITABLE

UniTable embodies a strong, formal identity, defined by clean lines, refined proportions, and sophisticated materials. Distinctive details—including its extruded aluminum beams and die-cast aluminum bases—create a cohesive and considered aesthetic, bringing a sense of clarity and sophistication to the contemporary office environment.

At the heart of UniTable is a dynamic and highly flexible design. Its extruded aluminum beam provides a robust structural foundation that can function independently or be combined with additional transverse beams to create a wide range of configurations. This inherent flexibility makes UniTable easy to reconfigure as requirements evolve, whether responding to changes in workstation numbers, spatial layouts, or functional and aesthetic needs. From expanding a workspace to adapting its configuration, UniTable evolves seamlessly with the environment, maintaining a high level of performance, functionality, and design integrity.

NOTABLE

NoTable embodies this principle through a carefully considered combination of design research, functional innovation, and expressive simplicity. An all-purpose table system with a distinctive personality, it maintains a sleek and elegant aesthetic while offering the versatility demanded by contemporary meeting environments. Designed for maximum aesthetic and functional flexibility, NoTable can be configured to respond effortlessly to different spatial requirements. Its intelligent structural system allows the beams to be connected at different angles, making it possible to adapt configurations and optimise the use of space with ease. Created for contemporary executive and meeting environments, NoTable combines architectural clarity with a refined, lightweight structure. Its balanced proportions and adaptable configurations allow it to transition naturally between formal boardrooms, collaborative meeting spaces, and multifunctional environments. With a coherent and distinctive design language, NoTable brings together flexibility, functionality, and refined aesthetics to create meeting spaces with both presence and purpose.
